FinLit

FINANCIAL LITERACY FOR SCHOOLS & ORGANIZATIONS

Give students the money skills school doesn't teach.

FinLit delivers interactive, gamified learning sessions where students work through real-world money decisions, so they leave ready to manage their first paycheck, budget, and credit card with confidence.

THE VALUE FOR YOUR SCHOOL

Fills a real gap

Budgeting, credit, taxes, and investing are rarely covered before graduation. FinLit fills that gap in a way students actually remember.

Students engage

Gamified, hands-on challenges replace the lecture. Students practice decisions instead of memorizing definitions.

Easy to bring in

One point of contact, flexible scheduling around your calendar, and content tailored to your grade level.

WHAT STUDENTS LEARN

Saving
Goals, accounts, rainy-day fund

Budgeting
Income, spending, planning

Investing
Compound interest, ETFs, retirement accounts

Credit
Scores, cards, debt

Taxes
Paychecks and withholding

BUILT AROUND WHAT YOUR STUDENTS NEED

Want one workshop?

Book a single session: a focused workshop on the essentials of personal finance, ideal for an assembly, advisory block, or special event.

Want a series?

Schedule multiple sessions that refine skills over time, with a thorough deep dive into each financial topic you choose, so students build lasting confidence.

Ready to go all in?

Run a full program across a semester or year, with a financial roadmap, student progress reports, and deeper practice that builds lasting habits.

Led by Zev Kalechofsky, founder of FinLit, a graduate of The Kehillah School with a B.S. in Economics from Syracuse University.

FinLit provides financial education, not financial advice.

Book a meeting

thefinlitcoach.com/schools | thefinlitcoach@gmail.com

thefinlitcoach.com/schools